

Transitioning to Online: Resources for Faculty

March 17, 2020

Faculty,

Greetings from the Center for Teaching Excellence. As we are transitioning courses online, we have been proactively working to provide faculty with plenty of resources. Online Education and the Center for Teaching Excellence are diligently striving to assist faculty in these unprecedented times. Many educational development companies are offering programs and resources for free. Below are several resources for you in addition to the resources we have created at KCKCC:

Five Ways to Promote Student Autonomy in Online Discussions

1. Magna Publications is offering the following collection (Taking Your Teaching Online) for free. Use coupon code COLLECTION at checkout to receive this collection for free!
 - a. <https://www.magnapubs.com/online-courses/taking-your-teaching-online-program-collection-15317-1.html>
2. Association of College University Educators (ACUE): Click on the link below for a free online teaching toolkit:
 - a. <https://acue.org/online-teaching-toolkit/>
3. Pearson Education: Click the link below, find free resources/videos for higher education faculty on this page:
 - a. <https://www.pearson.com/news-and-research/working-learning-online-during-pandemic.html>