ABOUT THE KANSAS CITY JAZZ SUMMIT

The Kansas City Jazz Summit provides an educational opportunity for middle school, high school, and college jazz bands, combos, and vocal ensembles. This annual jazz festival takes place Tuesday through Friday in either the last week of April or the first week of March in the Performing Arts Center at Kansas City Kansas Community College. Tuesday typically consists of vocal ensembles, while Wednesday and Friday features big bands and combos. Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday are non-competitive, with the focus being on allowing groups to showcase their own unique style and personality while receiving both written comments and onstage clinics from master performers and educators.

"Basically Basie" Jazz Heritage Competition

Thursday, May 1st, 2025

ABOUT THE KCKCC DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC

The mission of the Music Department at KCKCC is to develop the well-rounded musician through theory and practice – artistically, intellectually, and technically. This well-rounded musicianship is achieved through studying and performing music of not only the classical tradition but also in jazz and contemporary popular styles. Students integrate theory and practice in an environment in which they become active learners through their relationships with faculty, who themselves continue to grow as artists and teachers.

ALUMNI

KCKCC alumni include saxophonist/composer/educator and former member of Art Blakey's Jazz Messengers Bobby Watson, Thelonious Monk International Jazz Vocal Competition winner Lisa Henry, touring bassist and session musician Tim Bailey and renowned jazz organist Chris Hazelton, as well as numerous active gigging musicians in Kansas City's thriving live jazz scene.

DOWNBEAT STUDENT MUSIC AWARDS

KCKCC students and faculty have earned 48 DownBeat Magazine Student Music Awards since 2017, including 15 apiece in both 2022 and 2023. The only schools to earn more SMAs during that period were the University of Miami, Caleb Chapman's Soundhouse, and the University of Northern Colorado. KCKCC, Miami, and UNC were also the only schools to receive SMAs in instrumental solo, instrumental group, vocal solo, vocal group, blues/pop/rock solo, blues/pop/rock group, composition, and audio engineering categories over that timeframe.

ELLA FITZGERALD SCHOLARSHIPS AND LISTENING LIBRARY

Since 2020, KCKCC has partnered with the Ella Fitzgerald Charitable Foundation to offer scholarships covering full tuition, fees, books, and supplies to deserving KCKCC jazz students. Thanks to additional funding from the Ella Fitzgerald Charitable Foundation, in Fall 2023 the Music Department was able to open the Ella Fitzgerald Listening Library and Study Lounge, which contains multiple listening stations, seating for several students, and a library of well over 10,000 LPs and CDs (mostly jazz) for students to listen to at any time.

“BASICALLY BASIE” JAZZ HERITAGE COMPETITION

The Kansas City Jazz Summit highlights Kansas City's rich jazz heritage through the “Basically Basie” Jazz Heritage Competition. Bands are adjudicated on their ability to capture the essence of the Kansas City style, as best exemplified by the Count Basie Orchestra. The “Basically Basie” competition is modeled after the “Essentially Ellington” competition, in which bands select approved repertoire and work towards emulating the style and spirit as closely to the original performances and recordings as possible. We feel it is important in Kansas City that students and directors understand, appreciate, and take pride in the unique legacy of the Basie band and the Kansas City swing style. The judges are not asked to decide which is “the best band.” The “Basically Basie” Jazz Heritage Competition is about determining which band embraces both the study of the repertoire and the spirit and musicianship of the Count Basie Orchestra most thoroughly and effectively on stage in performance.
